

I believe in Public ownership of the airwave/media. When the media falls into the private sector the public loses perspective. Local stations should provide local news and varying opinions based on the interest of the community itself. Democracy can flourish only when the public is informed with a variety of perspectives, by which the people can take part. With the onset of Commercial/Corporate ownership the news and information come from the interests of advertisers. Don't bombard US with corporate media that does NOT have the public interest at heart.
